

National Health Council

1730 M Street NW, Suite 500, Washington, DC 20036-4561 • 202-785-3910 • www.nationalhealthcouncil.org • info@nhcouncil.org

Updated and Unique Compensation Report Released on Salary/Benefits for Patient Advocacy and Human Service Organizations

Washington, DC (December 21, 2011) – What are nonprofit health and human services organization’s paying in salary and benefits for their staff? More than 80 positions – from the CEO to entry-level positions – are covered in the 2011 Management Compensation Report released this week.

The annual report is a joint project of the National Health Council and the National Human Services Assembly. It is the only report of its kind unique to the health and human services sector, and the research was done by PRM Consulting Group.

Fifty-four national patient advocacy and human service organizations participated in the project – ranging from the American Cancer Society to Volunteers of America. The information is broken down by broad geographic location, organization budget, and total number of employees. In addition to compensation information, the report also looks at supplemental benefits, retirement and savings plans, and other broad-based benefits offered to employees.

To view the table of contents of the 2011 Management Compensation Report and order a copy, visit the National Health Council website at <http://www.nationalhealthcouncil.org/pages/page-content.php?pageid=82>, or contact the NHC at 202-785-3910; e-mail, info@nhcouncil.org.

The National Health Council (NHC) is the only organization that brings together all segments of the health community to provide a united voice for people with chronic diseases and disabilities. To learn more about the NHC, visit its website at www.nationalhealthcouncil.org.

The National Human Services Assembly is an association of the nation’s leading national non-profits in the fields of health, human and community development, and human services. Visit the Assembly’s website by going to www.nationalassembly.org.

Contact:

Nancy Hughes
202-973-0550

nhughes@nhcouncil.org